Roslindale Runaways Return

Hot coffee helps warm Ruth Stewart, 11, and her 9-year-old twin brothers, William and (right) David, at West Roxbury police station, where they were reunited today with their father, Lloyd, after being missing from their Roslindale home for two days and three nights. The trio of runaways stayed in a parked truck for three nights before they were reported to police this morning by a drug-store clerk after they asked him for coffee.

3 Armies Now Chasing Nazis

By JAMES M. LONG

PARIS, Jan. 15 (AP)—First Army tanks and infantry stormed at the approaches of Houffalize today, and the fall of that communication center in the flattening Belgian bulge appeared imminent. The Germans, apparently withdrawing all the way to the Siegfried Line, attempted to stiffen their defenses to save both Houffalize and St. Vith. Lt. Gen. Hodges' troops were within six and a half miles of St. Vith.

Fog gave way to clear weather early this morning, and tactical planes went to work again to add to the ruin inflicted yesterday.

The American First and Third Armies linked up south of La Roche, forming with the British Second Army a solid Allied front accelerating the German retreat.

North of St. Vith, the enemy mounted a series of counterattacks against the First Army around captured Thiermont, touching off a violent tank and infantry battle. Despite snow and ice, the Americans made general gains of 1000 yards on the northeast flank of the bulge between Stavelot and Malmédy.

The First captured 15 places overnight, biting deeper into the shoulder of the salient, and striking final blows to liquidate the western tip of the bulge, where contact was established with the Third Army southeast of Laroché.

Houffalize, almost in the dead center of the bulge at its most expanded stage, appeared doomed as the Allies battered within three to three and a half miles of the towns on three sides.

The Germans tightened their defenses overnight in an effort to check the Third Army driving from the south, with Houffalize the hinge of German defenses.

Overnight, two dozens or more towns were captured, including Tettinger, three miles inside Germany's Saarland opposite Luxembourg.

Supreme headquarters said the enemy was pouring reinforcements into the middle Saar and upper Alsace plain, where their earlier offensive thrusts had been brought to a standstill.

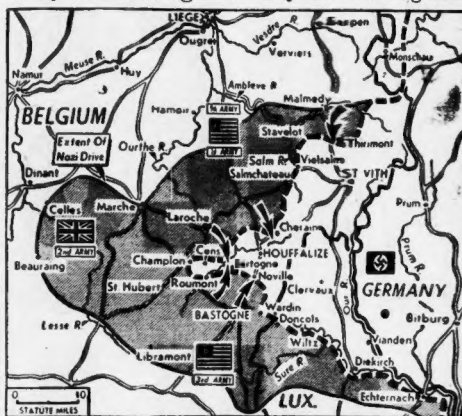

The First Army took Dinex on the Liege highway two miles north of Houffalize.

Between Malmédy and Stavelot along the northeast side of the bulge, the First Army captured Ligneuville, 6½ miles northwest of St. Vith and four miles south of Malmédy. Beaumont was reached and Collee, six miles northwest of St. Vith was taken.

Near German-held Bovigny, 10 miles northeast of Houffalize, the Americans captured Baclain, Mont-le-Ban and Halconreuz. The Houffalize-St. Vith highway, last major traffic artery in the bulge, cut yesterday, was overrun today.

Von Rundstedt strove to hold St. Vith, where two railroads and seven important highways meet four miles west of the German frontier. He sent over 25 tanks, lightly supported by infantry, against Hodges' men at Thiermont, and these were badly mauled in two engagements during darkness.

The Americans cut the Houffalize-St. Vith road and threatened a road from Vielsalm to Cherain.

WESTERN FRONT—American First Army forces today threatened the advances to Houffalize while other units of the First joined with the Third and the British Second Army to form a solid front against the retreating Nazis in the Belgian bulge. South of Malmédy the First pushed to within 6½ miles of St. Vith.

Reds Surge West in 7 Great Battle Sectors

LONDON, Jan. 15 (AP)—Battles are sweeping the entire 600 miles of the Eastern front from Budapest in Hungary to Memel on the Baltic, the German high command said today, with the Russians launching new offensives in Poland and East Prussia.

U. S. Heavies Blast Reich Oil

LONDON, Jan. 15 (AP)—U. S. Eighth Air Force Fortresses and Liberators raided Germany by daylight today, continuing the mighty Allied aerial offensive which blasted eight Nazi oil centers in a 36-hour period ending last night.

An official announcement said American long range bombers were over Germany again at noon today, after RAF heavies "in very great strength" heaped tons of explosives on the Leuna synthetic oil plant at Merseburg and on a fuel depot at Dülmen last night.

Use of the quoted phrase in air ministry communiques generally indicates a force of more than 1000 bombers participated.

A smaller force of raiders struck a secondary blow at the German capital.

Great armadas of Allied planes yesterday blasted Germany's oil resources and communications, and scoured retreating Nazis in Belgium. Paris reports 232 German planes shot down. Allied losses were set at 45 planes, including 19 U. S. heavy bombers.

The German communiqué said the Russians had opened the "big winter battle between the Carpathians and Memel."

Altogether, the Russians were storming westward in seven different sectors.

New Soviet attacks, sprung following drumfire artillery barrages, were launched in Poland from Russian bridgeheads at Pulawy and Varka, south of Warsaw, from the Vistula-Bug triangle north of Warsaw, and Narew bridgeheads south of East Prussia, the Germans said.

In addition, the Russians were attacking between Ebenrode and Schlossberg in East Prussia, toward Krakow in south Poland and in southern Slovakia, north of Budapest.

The Germans admitted Marshal Konev's offensive forged a strong bridgehead over the Nida in southern Poland, where last night's Moscow communiqué announced a penetration to within 64 miles of Germany's Silesian border and 32 miles from Krakow, ancient Polish capital.

While the Russians had not yet confirmed launching other new attacks, an Associated Press dispatch from Moscow said there were signs "the Red army may shortly engage every division on the eastern front in some of the heaviest battles of the Russian-German war, eclipsing perhaps anything the Soviets have thrown against the Nazis."

"Long preparation presumably has been completed for a resumption of operations against the Germans in East Prussia and northern Poland."

Above Warsaw from the Vistula-Bug triangle the Russians presumably were striking at Modlin, strategic crossing at the confluence of the Bug and Vistula where outnumbered Poles fought a heroic battle in 1939 and delayed the fall of Warsaw.

Formosa Bombed Again; Yanks Gain on Luzon

By the Associated Press

American carrier planes raided Formosa again today in support of the unchecked Sixth Army advance in the Philippines, the Japanese Domei news agency reported shortly after intimating Premier Gen.

Kuniaki Koso's government may fall as a result of continued military reverses.

An unconfirmed Domei broadcast said 200 seaborne aircraft for four and a half hours bombed and strafed airfields and installations on Formosa, hit the previous day by China-based Superforts and Liberators bombers from the Philippines.

Formosa is the Japanese supply line to Luzon island in the Philippines, where Lt. Gen. Walter Krueger's Sixth Army advanced in three directions, seized four important road junctions, crossed the formidable Agno river, 88 miles from Manila, and stretched the American beachhead over 45 miles.

Mechanized forces on the western flank of the advance down the wide valley to Manila seized Bayamban and Mangatara, far in advance of the center and eastern flank which were held up by the only serious opposition encountered on Luzon. Bayamban is a junction of the Manila railway and a highway leading eastward across the valley behind prepared Agno river defenses.

Other Yanks advanced northward along the eastern Lingayen Gulf beachhead to seize Damortis. This posed a threat to Japanese blocking the road to Haguio, Philippines summer capital and presumably headquarters for the enemy on northern Luzon. A highway from Damortis intercepts the Baguio road in the rear of Japanese forces who have been holding up the eastern flank for days.

A Yank column also entered Alaminos, from where they can wheel southward along a coastal highway to Bataan.

Gen. MacArthur attributed the meagerness of enemy opposition at least partially to warplanes which have raised havoc with Japanese transport. In five days they have wiped out 26 locomotives, 300 freight cars, 400 motor vehicles and 11 tanks.

Thirty-five Japanese planes were destroyed over Luzon in two days, including 20 shot down over the U. S. Seventh fleet in Lingayen gulf. Some damage was inflicted on American ships.

MacArthur's Philippine-based Liberators hit Formosa airdromes for two successive days, and China-based B-29's ranged freely over the island for two and a half hours Sunday. Other Superforts struck Nagoya in Japan proper.

All B-29's returned from these raids, the War Department announced.

The reported carrier sweep over Formosa would be from a unit of Vice Adm. John S. McCain's fast carrier forces which last Friday and Saturday wrecked four Philippines-reinforcement convoys off the Indo-China coast.

Tokyo announced two more Japanese admirals were killed in action and expressed concern over possible Russian moves. A Domei News Agency commentator said, "Stalin will be forced to show his hand in the Pacific war before next April."

Balk Nazi Plans On Italian Front

ROME, Jan. 15 (AP)—Repeated Nazi efforts to set up outposts south of the Reno river and east of the Senio along the Adriatic battle line have been frustrated with heavy losses to the enemy. Allied headquarters announced today.

Strongly reinforced German forces have dug in along the farther banks of these rivers from the Adriatic to the Apennines and it is apparent Marshal Kesselring intends to hold that line at all costs.

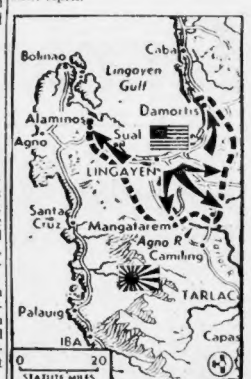

In the western coastal regions of the Fifth Army front German patrols stepped up activity, particularly in the Serchio valley, where a recent German counter-offensive was beaten back.

Along the rest of the front Allied patrols probed enemy defenses in the face of withering artillery fire.

Rickenbacker Visions 3 More Years of War

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 15 (AP)—This nation can look forward to at least three more years of war, at least two million casualties, and a debt of from 500 to 600 billion dollars before peace comes, Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, president of Eastern Air Lines, told members of the Arizona Newspapers Ass'n at their annual meeting.

But the cost, whatever it is, will be insignificant, the World War I flying ace declared, to what it would cost us to lose or what it would cost us to have another even deadlier war.

LUZON FRONT—U. S. forces have expanded their Lingayen Gulf beachhead to a depth of 45 miles toward Manila after crossing the Agno river, first natural barrier on their road to the capital city, Damortis, key rail and highway junction, was captured in the day's drive, isolating all Japs in west coastal area from the main highway into the Banquet Mountains.

British Advance Nears Mandalay

KANDY, Ceylon, Jan. 15 (AP)—Lt. Gen. William J. Slim's British 14th Army troops, slashing south through central Burma have advanced to within 30 miles of Mandalay in a sustained drive which has carried them 20 miles below the railway town of Shwebo, Southeast Asia headquarters said today.

Bulge Only 'Ersatz' Battle?

MOSCOW, Jan. 15 (AP)—The Allied battles in the Ardennes or Vosges seem to be skirmishes by comparison with the fighting on the Eastern front, Ilya Ehrenburg wrote today in Pravda.

He quoted the Germans as saying the battle in Belgium was an ersatz offensive.

Ted Bonifield, 16, and his bride, the former Nellie Walls, 15, both of Detroit, Mich., arrived at their respective homes today, ending a police search, instigated by their parents, with the announcement that they had eloped. The youngsters are both 8th grade students, but Ted works after school and gets $45 a week.

Hunt Missing Purse as Clue In Methuen Mystery Death

METHUEN, Jan. 15—The handbag of 25-year-old Hazel B. Clemet, divorcee and war worker, whose body was found in a snowbank yesterday, was revealed today to be missing as police endeavored to retrace her movements since she left home Saturday morning.

Police Chief Cyril Feugill said there was no trace of the handbag at the time of the finding of the body of the victim, fifth to meet mysterious death in the Lawrence area in the past few months.

The young woman, who left home on a shopping trip at 9:30 a. m. Saturday, was found dead early yesterday in a snowbank near the shore of Searles pond, clad in ski pants and two sweaters, with her coat flung aside nearby.

Chief Feugill and investigators are trying to learn the places she visited during the day and evening where they await a report from state pathologists who are making a chemical analysis of the vital organs of the victim.

Also being investigated is a report that an auto, with lights dimmed, was seen near the point where her body was found, for about 15 minutes shortly before the victim was discovered.

The young woman, who resumed her maiden name after her divorce, was discovered in the snowbank by Paul Husson of Crane st., Lowell, an entertainer, at 1 a. m., some 15 hours after she left home, telling her mother she was going shopping for Sunday dinner.

The mother, Mrs. Alma Clemet, a widow, made identification after Husson told police of parking his car near the spot and seeing a body.

Officials theorized that the body was taken to the spot by automobile, following a statement by Tristram Walker of Howe st. that he had seen an automobile parked at the spot about two hours before the body was found.

Speaking for Dr. Burgiel, Dr. Parkinson Oddy, associate medical examiner, and himself, following the autopsy, Dr. Alan R. Moritz, state pathologist, said: "There is no evidence that death was caused by violence or assault. It is presumptive at this time that she died of natural causes unless otherwise shown when a complete chemical analysis and microscopic examination is made of various organs of the body, which will take several days."

AWOL 3 Nights Twins, Sister Safe

By ALICE BISSELL

Grimy, blue with cold, trembling so they had to use both hands to lift coffee mugs to their lips, 9-year-old Rosindale twin boys and their sister, 11, were found and restored to their parents today after a weird run-away escapade, during which they lived in a parked truck for two days and three nights.

The children, who had eaten only one real meal since they vanished from home Friday after school, were David, William and Ruth Stewart, children of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Stewart, Belgrade ave.

An alert drug store clerk was responsible for restoration of the cold and bedraggled children to their parents. This morning they crept out of the truck, parked at the Rosindale railroad station, and entered his store, asking for coffee.

He telephoned police. When police telephoned the Stewart home to report the children were safe, the father tuned to his anguished wife and told her the youngsters had been found.

Hysteria overcame her. "You're not telling me the truth," she cried. "Something has happened to them. You're not telling me the truth."

But it was the truth—and at the police station the twins and their sister waited to tell a story stranger than fiction, while officers filled them with hot coffee to still their trembling and cure their goose pimples.

Each of the trio contributed to a recital of their runaway. Each contributed tears to the telling.

The twins and Ruth neared their home in the ordinary course of things after school Friday. William walked ahead, entered and paused thoughtfully in the hall as he heard his father scolding their brother, Lloyd, Jr., 12. It had something to do with Lloyd's reluctance to wash some dishes and it sounded to William, he told police, as though this was not the time to enter the family circle.

He darted out and told his brother and sister. The children wandered away. At the Rosindale railroad station they discovered an open truck with a driver's cab. They jumped in and huddled together. Then, fearful of being discovered, they found some cardboard which they propped against the cab windows to conceal them from passers-by.

There they spent the night, shivering in temperatures as low as 15 degrees.

"We tried to shut our eyes," Ruth related, "but they kept opening. It was awful cold. We stayed close together."

Saturday morning they went to the home of a boy who was a chum of the twins. His mother was cleaning house. She had no reason to suspect anything was wrong. Ruth sailed in and helped her with the housework.

The grateful woman gave her some movie money. "And we had some toast," said David.

The twins set forth jauntily with their chum on his newspaper route and Ruth stayed at the house. In the afternoon they went to the movies.

Saturday night they stole back to the cab of the truck. Now, recounted William, they were certainly too scared to go home and face the music for staying away all night. It wasn't quite so cold, but it was going to be. The mercury dropped to 15 during the night.

Sunday morning William dutifully set out for the Episcopal Church of Our Savior, where he and David were due to sing in the choir as usual. David was too weak to go. At the church William became ill. He went back to the truck. They huddled there all day throughout the snowstorm.

Sunday night the twins went to church. David sang in the choir. It was pay night. William stood in line and got his stipend, too. That night they had their only meal: "I," said William, "had chicken soup, a tuna fish sandwich, coffee and a great big piece of pie. Gee whiz!"

Thus, stoked and warm, but still afraid to go home, the run-aways made a bee-line for their automotive castle and holed up for the third night.

They were a sorry looking troupe, cold, unwashed and desperate, their clothes wrinkled and soiled, when they straggled into the drug store this morning. Their attempt to be casual when they ordered coffee fell flat. The clerk went in a back room and told the police to come a-running. They did, and the youngsters were collared.

They had been able to escape notice before because their parents had conducted their own search for two days and nights and only then had asked help of the police.

The children had been able to use the truck for a hideout because employees of the owner, the Singer Taxi Service, had been unable to start it and were waiting for a new battery.

"Did you three ever run away before?" a patrolman asked them. William told all. "Yep," he said, savoring his steaming coffee with great gusto, "we went to City Point last summer and slept on the sand all night."

Yeggs Get $300,000 Jewelry in Atlanta

ATLANTA, Jan. 15 (AP)—Jewel thieves broke open two large safes in a downtown jewelry store and made away with diamonds, watches, bracelets, bar pins and rings valued by R. L. Schneider, principal owner, at approximately $300,000. The burglars overlooked $2000 in cash.

3 TO 6 INCH SNOW DUE HERE TONIGHT

More snow was heading for Boston today as hundreds of workmen labored to clear streets of the six-inch blanket left by the Sunday storm.

The new snowfall may reach three to six inches, G. Harold Noyes, U. S. Weather Bureau meteorologist, predicted. He said the snow would begin about midnight and continue until Tuesday afternoon.

Hazardous driving conditions were reported throughout the state due to drifts and the new snow falling on icy pavements.

Train schedules were upset by the storm. New Haven line officials reported the Federal Express from Washington was 80 minutes late and South Shore trains were delayed from five to 30 minutes.

A freight train breakdown on the Fitchburg division of the Boston and Maine caused a 50-minute delay of the Fitchburg-to-Boston passenger train due at 7:35 a. m.

The weather bureau forecast the new storm will be followed by considerably colder temperatures. Noyes said it would not be a cold wave, however.

Returns Reward From War Wife

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., Jan. 15 (AP)—The $100 reward she paid the finder of her husband's English setter Bonnie Boy will be returned to Mrs. James Baird of Porter's Hill, Monroe, wife of a soldier serving in Egypt.

William J. Lavery, attorney for Joseph Cave, a Newtown mechanic who found the animal, disclosed this.

He said Cave decided to return the money, which he believed had come from "a person of independent means" when newspaper stories told that Mrs. Baird, a war worker, sold the family car to get money for the reward.

RETAIL COFFEE PRICES STAY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 (INS)—The OPA announced a 2 per cent increase in the ceiling prices importers and subsequent sellers may charge for green coffee in lots of 26 bags or more, without raising retail prices.

The Weather

LOCAL—Fair and somewhat warmer today. Increasing cloudiness late this afternoon and tonight, followed by snow beginning soon after midnight and continuing until clearing Tuesday afternoon. Lowest temperature tonight about 25. New snowfall accumulation likely to be from 3 to 6 inches.

Home Front's Duty, As Told by the OWI

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 (AP)—The Office of War Information said today:

"The government needs and asks its citizens in this 162d week of the war to:

"Turn out all unnecessary or ornamental lights to help avert shortages of coal essential to war production.

"Keep the temperature in homes at a 68-degree maximum. Live within your fuel oil rations; if you burn coal, conserve heat in every possible way.

"Keep on turning in kitchen fats. The two red points per pound are more important to you than ever; the fats are still needed.

"Fill 31,925 jobs in 70 shipbuilding and ship repair yards now behind schedule on the production urgency list.

"Cancel your pleasure-traveling plans. Many railroad facilities now devoted to passenger use are critically needed to transport war materials."

Martin Balks Clare Ouster

By RAYMOND WILCOVE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 (INS)—Majority members of the House military affairs committee, it was learned today, made an unsuccessful attempt to purge Rep. Clare Boothe

Luce (R.) of Connecticut from their committee.

The attempt failed because House Minority Leader Joseph W. Martin, Jr., demanded that the glamorous Congresswoman be retained.

The attempt to remove Mrs. Luce from the committee, one of the most important in the House, came, it was said, as a direct result of the trip to European battlefronts taken last month by 17 committee members, among them Mrs. Luce.

Martin rejected a democratic plan to cut Republican representation on the committee, which would have meant the automatic dropping of Mrs. Luce.

Mrs. Luce's male colleagues returned to the United States "angry as all get-out," as one member described it.

"They complained," said a Congressman, "that Mrs. Luce staged a one-man show. They said she even had her own photographers along when she visited the front, while European newspapers referred to them as the Luce committee."

Her democratic colleagues were reported to have suggested to Martin that she be given a post on the House Foreign Affairs Committee, another major House group to which the Democrats named two of their women freshmen, Mrs. Helen Gahagan Douglas of California and Mrs. Emily Taft Douglas of Illinois.

The GOP leader denied that any attempt had been made by the Republican leadership to discipline Mrs. Luce for voting against creation of the new House Committee on Un-American Activities, successor to the old Dies Committee, which the minority party supported.

9 Striking War Workers Drafted

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 15 (AP)—A union official said last night nine war workers who struck here recently have been "pemptorily" drafted, in what was said in Washington to be the first reported "work or fight" case of its kind.

James Castagna, shop steward of Brushmakers Union, Local 16303 (AFL), said the men received "peremptory orders" from their draft boards to appear for physical examinations, at which they were approved for induction.

He said they were among 20 draft-age men who took part in a week-long walkout ending Thursday by 400 employees of the Rubberset Co., manufacturers of brushes and plane and marine parts for war contracts, in a dispute over vacations, holiday pay and bonuses.

Betty Grable Kidnap Plot Told

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 15 (AP)—A sketchy account of an alleged abduction plot flickered across the Hollywood news scene today, together with filmland's inevitable report of approaching divorce and sundry health notes.

Betty Grable's studio disclosed she had received a kidnap threat some time ago. However, the incident is closed, since "the danger has now passed," a spokesman added.

Atty. Jerry Giesler announced Mrs. Jack Oakie (Venita Varden) had retained him to discuss a property settlement with the comedian's lawyer, preparatory to possible filing of a divorce action.

Heading the sick list was Al Johnson, who re-entered a hospital after suffering a relapse of malarial fever reportedly con-

1st U. S. Convoy Uses Ledo Road

MYITKYINA, Burma, Jan. 14 (delayed) (AP)—The first American convoy carrying war supplies overland from India to China in two and a half years arrived at Myitkyina today.

The historic convoy, the first ever to cross Burma from India, covered the first 262 miles of the 1000-mile trip from Ledo on the Indian border area to Kunming, China.

Heavy, medium and light trucks were loaded with ammunition, jeeps, artillery and ambulances. Several drivers are Negroes who will be the first American ground troops to enter China.

At Myitkyina the convoy will wait until either the few remaining miles of the new cut road from Myitkyina to Tengchung is completed or until the last 25 miles of the old Burma road from Namikhan to Wasting is cleared of Japs.

The cut off, north of the old Burma road, may be completed by Jan. 22. More than 40,000 Chinese coolies are working day and night on both ends of the road.

Auto-Born Baby, Mother Thriving

Although the stork arrived slightly ahead of schedule—at Franklin st. and Tremont ave., Chelsea, in the family car en route to Whidden Memorial Hospital, Mrs. Agnes McCarthy, 31, of Clifton ave., Everett, and her six-pound, 15-ounce son were reported thriving at the hospital today.

John McCarthy was taking his wife to the hospital when it became evident the baby planned a premature arrival. McCarthy stopped the car and hailed passersby who notified Chelsea police. Sgt. Stanley Gryzbowski and Patrolman John P. O'Neill went to the car to help Sir Stork.

Soon a patrol car arrived with Dr. Abraham Ginsberg. The baby by then was wrapped in a blanket, and the physician accompanied Mrs. McCarthy and her infant to the hospital.

GI Looters Burned Money

PARIS, Jan. 15 (AP)—Cases of canned fruit and fistfuls of French banknotes were thrown into a locomotive firebox when Military Police raided a U. S. railway battalion to arrest alleged looters of supply trains, an Army undercover agent testified today.

He appeared at the court-martial of a fifth group of enlisted men accused of diverting cigarets and other Army supplies for the fighting front into black market channels.

"I was in the engine of a cab when the crew got wind of the battalion raid," he told the court. "The engineer immediately took out a wallet and threw large quantities of French currency into the fire."

"Then the cab crew tossed into the firebox two cases of canned fruit which had been hidden in the tender."

$4000 Verdict For Theater Injury

Mrs. Helen Smonis, 29, of Brockton, was awarded $4000 by a Suffolk Superior Civil Court jury today for injuries she claimed were suffered in a Boston theater.

The award was made in a sealed verdict opened before Judge Edward F. Hanly. Her husband, Thomas, received $800 for medical expenses he claimed were incurred due to his wife's injury.

The couple sued Boston Theater Corp., operators of Howard Athenaeum, claiming neglect which caused her to fall down stairs in the theater on Oct. 16, 1942, and break her arm.

New Candy Pack Replaces Oxygen Need on Warplanes

CHICAGO, Jan. 15—"Reach for a sweet instead of an oxygen mask" is the latest slogan of Army fliers as a result of development of a new "air crew lunch."

The latest ration, described today at the Chicago Quartermaster Depot, is a four-ounce package of candy, easily opened with one heavily-gloved hand, which provides a quick release of energy and enables fliers to go 5000 feet higher than they previously could reach without an oxygen mask.

All men on missions of three hours or more will receive the new ration, which contains fudge, gum, chocolate and gum drops, fondant creams, licorice drops and chocolate-coated peanuts.

The Quartermaster Depot announcement said the ration was chiefly carbohydrate and had been developed to relieve flying fatigue.

"When the contents of the ration are eaten," the depot statement said, "energy is released quickly, particularly at high altitudes. By using this ration, the flier can raise the ceiling at which he can do without his oxygen mask by 5000 feet."

The new ration has enough variety in flavor so that frequent use will not dull the appetite.

It also will keep for a long time and can withstand temperature of 160 degrees above zero and 68 below and up to 90 per cent humidity.

The package is so arranged with a sleeve container that the flier may slide compartments past a top opening in such a way that the candies may be dropped into his mouth while the box is being manipulated with glove or mittened hand, according to the announcement.

Bob Hope Fans Warned 'Get Your Tickets Early'

With prospects of an advance sale which will break all entertainment records, tickets for the great benefit show headed by Bob Hope and his famed radio company will go on sale tomorrow at the Boston Garden and the Boston Arena.

The tickets may be obtained in person at the box offices of both Garden and Arena, and by mail order from the Garden. No telephone reservations will be accepted. Tickets are priced at $1.30, $2.40 and $3.60.

The show which Bob Hope, idol of servicemen throughout the world, and his company of merry-making stars will bring to the Garden, promises to be the greatest roundup of talent ever assembled here. There will be Frances Langford, Jerry Colonna, Vera Vague, Skinnay Ennis and Toni Romano, those prime favorites on Hope's No. 1 favorite program of the air.

And along with Bob Hope and his company there will be other famed stars of stage and screen, radio and night clubs. These include:

From the Latin Quarter: Pat Rooney, the Edwards Brothers, the Amory Brothers and the Don Arden Dancing Beauties.

From the Mayfair: Gracie Barrie, Ginger Harmon, Herb Lewis and Johnny Howard.

From RKO Theater: The King Cole Trio; Louis Prima, maestro of jive; Germaine, glamorous song stylist, and the popular Buddy Bards. Other notables of the entertainment world will be announced daily in the columns of the Record-American and Sunday Advertiser.

Every penny of the proceeds will be devoted to the Record-American and Sunday Advertiser Hospitalized Servicemen's Fund—to the cause of disabled veterans which is near to the heart of Bob Hope, and for which he and his brilliant company, and all other stars on the program, are giving freely and voluntarily of their talent and time.

Bob Hope's appearance with his show at the Boston Garden will be preceded on Tuesday evening, Jan. 23, by his regular nationwide broadcast, which will be held from a naval base in Rhode Island, under sponsorship of the Peppodent Co.

Above all entertainers in this country, Bob Hope has won the loyalty and affection of the millions of fighting men he has visited in camps, at bases, in hospitals and on ships and battlefronts in all parts of the warring world.

To bring these boys an inter-

Tomorrow is the opening day for the sale of tickets to the Record-American-Advertiser Hospitalized Servicemen's Fund show, starring Bob Hope (at left autographing a "short snorter" for a GI) and Comedian Jerry Colonna, who whispers to Frances Langford (upper right), singing star of the group. The show will be at Boston Garden, Jan. 24.

lude of merriment, a few minutes of laughter and cheer and a warm message from home, Hope has toured the globe, going into the danger zones to visit distant outposts and bleak areas where to many a weary fighting man, bringing renewed faith and courage that could not be duplicated.

The cause of disabled veterans is indeed Bob Hope's cause, as many a sick and wounded soldier and sailor whom he has visited in remote hospitals in the battle areas can testify. He knows their needs, he knows that they deserve the best, and that is what he is bringing them in this great show—the best that the entertainment world can offer.

Be sure to buy your tickets early, because all signs point to a quick sellout. Don't miss this superlative show, and cut yourself in on this opportunity to contribute to the urgent needs of the disabled war veterans of New England.

Moyne Trial Judge Assailed

CAIRO, Jan. 15 (AP)—The judge in the trial of two young Jews who assassinated Lord Moyne disclosed today a telegram signed by "a number of prominent Arabs" accused him of permitting the court to become a platform for dissemination of Jewish propaganda.

Signers included the president of the Arab Union Ass'n, a Nationalist organization. The judge declared he would take no more notice of pressure from that quarter than he has from any other.

He manifested impatience when defense counsel resumed the argument that patriotic sentiments induced in the minds of the defendants by the sufferings of Jews throughout history had motivated the slaying.

"I believe we can confine our statements more closely to the immediate motives," the judge declared.

The defendants—Eliahu Hakim and Eliahu Bet Sour—have confessed slaying Lord Moyne and his chauffeur.

Navy Decorates 4 Bay Staters

Four Massachusetts men have been decorated for outstanding achievement, it was announced by the Navy Dept. today.

Capt. William H. Buracker, USN, 47, of Church st., Winchester, received the Legion of Merit for outstanding performance as commander of the USS Princeton during operations against the Japs.

Com. John F. Crowley, USN, 36, of Springfield, was given the Navy Cross for heroism and intrepidity as commander of the USS Flier during a patrol through enemy waters where four enemy vessels were sunk.

The Bronze Star Medal was presented to Michael Szysko, USN, steward, of Myrtle st., Lawrence, and the Air Medal to Lt. William H. Gillespie, Jr., USN, of Adams st., Saugus, for achievement as pilot of a torpedo bomber engaged in anti-submarine patrol in the Atlantic.

Legion Official Tells Hub Military Training Benefits

Many young men, rejected for military service for physical and mental reasons, could have been accepted if they had the advantage of peacetime military training. Col. Perry Brown of Beaumont, Tex., chairman of the American Legion national defense committee, declared today.

Speaking at a New England regional conference of Legion leaders at Hotel Manger, the first of similar sessions to be held with educational and civic leaders throughout the nation, Col. Brown outlined the peacetime universal training program his organization has before Congress.

"At least 30 per cent of our young men of 18 were rejected for physical or mental reasons," Col. Brown declared. "Universal military training for one year would have remedied many of those physical defects or straightened out mental hazards which caused their rejection."

He said the Legion proposal called for universal service for youths from 18 to 23 years, preferably at 18.

"Most of the young men of that age would just be graduating from high school and only about 5 per cent of them would be planning to go to college," he said. "This would be an ideal time for them to put in one year of training without interrupting their educational or business future seriously."

He said the proposal called for three months of basic training, six months of special training in the department for which the individual was best fitted and the final three months in maneuvers.

For those attending college, he said, the program could be split into three-months periods of training over four years so as not to interfere seriously with their educational programs.

State Comdr. Thomas L. Mackey of Somerville presided at the conference. Other state department heads present included Jerry Wade, Maine; Patrick J. Hinchey, New Hampshire; Col. E. J. Casey, Vermont; Chester A. Follette, Rhode Island, and Herbert L. Emanuelson, Connecticut.

Royal Physician Is Dead at 99

LONDON, Jan. 15 (AP)—Sir Thomas Barlow, 99, physician to three British rulers, died today. He had attended Queen Victoria, King Edward VII and King George V.

Barlow's rules for longevity were: no alcohol, no smoking at work or meals, leisurely eating and good reading for relaxation.

NEW FULLMAN RECORD

CHICAGO, Jan. 15 (AP)—Handling 36,000,000 revenue passengers and rolling up a total of 28,500,000,000 passenger miles, the Pullman Co. had the greatest volume of business in its 80-year history in 1944, it was announced today.

Philbin Puts Nurse Need on War Heads

Placing the blame for the shortage of Army nurses on Army and Navy administrators, Cong. Philip J. Philbin of Clinton is asking why some of the 150,000 women who eagerly volunteered for military service were not trained for this most important work.

Member of the military affairs committee, he said he was heartily against drafting nurses and would vote for such a bill only as a last resort.

Philbin said:

"If some of these women enlistees so eager to serve their country had been trained as nurses, we would not have the present unfortunate situation which a reasonable degree of foresight, judgment and planning on the part of policy-making officials of the War and Navy Departments might well have averted."

He failed the "unjustice" of singling out "one group for compulsory service, especially a group of women that has rendered such magnificent contributions to the war effort as our nurses."

"Moreover, our civilian hospitals housing the sick, the mentally ill, expectant mothers, the aged and other invalids must not be depleted of adequate nursing and medical personnel."

"Obviously we must and will provide at all costs every necessary and indeed the most solicitous care for the gallant band of hundreds of thousands of young American heroes who have fallen and will fall in battle. If it is shown to be necessary, therefore, I will support the nurses draft measures, but, let me emphasize, I will do so most reluctantly."

At the same time, Philbin declared himself opposed to the "straitjacket techniques" of national civilian draft legislation.

Filene's Automatic Bargain BASEMENT

FLEW LIKE A FLASH

—hand crocheted hats for 49c—did you see the crowd around the hat bar the other day with literally hundreds of these colorful crocheted caps the hat-traction? A veritable rainbow of colors and women in lines four and five deep, scrambling to get one—some buying several. In a mere couple of hours about 400 had been sold—like a flash the counters were bare. You know January is a "between season" time in the hat business, so when a manufacturer offers you hundreds of one type of handmade hats—operating under our resourceful automatic plan, the buyer knows two things—(1) he's got to buy them at a very low price in order to sell a large quantity—(2) the price has got to be LOW enough to sell them quickly. Now a hand made hat might sell for any price—hand work usually costs more—but when you buy hand-made crocheted hats for 49c, it's value that speaks for itself. Now this "rare bargain find" is a specific example of what happens in every section of this unique bargain store every day. It's simple to figure that when a store is going to take a loss on goods that don't sell quickly via the automatic plan, that emphasis just WHEN and HOW MUCH that reduction in price is going to be—you are pretty apt to make very certain your original price is a LOW Bargain price, so there WON'T BE any automatic reduction. It's this plan that brings you such rare bargains as fur coats at $26.90—men's sweaters at $2—rayon stockings at 28c—beautiful cotton dresses at $1.48—men's suits and coats at $11—famous make overcoats at $36.90—sample fur trimmed coats at $78—elegant California sample hats at $3.95 and many others—all so LOW priced under our famous automatic plan the frequently they not only sell as "Quick as a wink," but in lots of thousands—they're priced LOW to beat the automatic reduction plan. Our objective is LOW prices—it's yours, too. Filene's Basement Automatic savings are aimed at you!

Army Doctors Finding Way To Halt Spread of Jaundice

Jaundice, one of the most widespread diseases of World War II, which has increased at an alarming rate in the United States, was revealed today to have its origin in filth.

Army doctors in Italy, where the disease caused more casualties among the armed forces than has actual action, have discovered this fact, one of the truly great medical advances of the war and one of the few original discoveries since the conflict started.

In 18 months of study the doctors, headed by Col. Marion H. Barker of the Northwestern University Medical School, have made much progress and are confident they will eventually isolate the jaundice germ.

Dispatches from Florence and Naples show that as a result of studies they have increased the percentage of soldiers returning to active duty after suffering jaundice from 55 to 92 per cent. They have also cut the average sickness from 65 days to less than 52.

Experience has shown victims must be put to bed as soon as possible with diet and careful sanitation being great factors in conquering the disease. A high protein diet with plenty of milk has been effective.

Study revealed that German prisoners, who had fought in Tunisia, as well as the American 34th Division which covered the same territory, had developed epidemics of jaundice. Combat groups were found suffering in higher proportion than base and hospital sections.

Seasonal fly and flood conditions were found to cause the disease.

Volunteers, many of them conscientious objectors, were treated with waste from infected persons and three out of five developed jaundice and sufficient evidence was obtained to show it was a virus and intestinal transfer disease.

Habitual Heroine Gives Life Saving Kin in Fire

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 15 (AP)—

As the oldest of 12 children, Clara Epperson was used to emergencies.

She was only 3½ years old, her brother, Fred, recalled today, and he was a toddler of 1½ when she first played the role of heroine. He fell into a duck pond, but Clara held his head above water until help arrived.

Later Wallace tumbled into the cinema. She saved him.

Saturday the family needed help again and Clara—now Mrs. Clara Cagle, 30, wife of M-Sgt. Alfred Cagle, somewhere in France—was equal to the test.

The apartment was in flames. Clara guided two sisters and a nephew to a window, boosted them through so they could escape on an adjoining roof.

But the window was now blistering hot, the smoke was thick and there was no one to aid Clara. Her body was found later.

Sullivan Raps Stop-Curley Ring

Asserting the legislature had no right to insist on authority to tell the people of Boston who should be mayor, Sen. J. Sullivan of South Boston allied himself yesterday with the growing ranks of legislators opposing attempts to use that body in the so-called "Stop Curley for Mayor" movement.

"The city charter of Boston specifies that a special election shall be held to fill the unexpired term of former Mayor Tobin," Sullivan said. "The care used by the legislature in drafting the charter is exemplified by the fact provision was made to meet a situation that actually exists."

He asserted that, otherwise, legislation of an emergency character would be justified but that there was no need for the legislature to act at the present time since the charter specifically provides for filling the vacancy resulting from Tobin's resignation to become governor.

"It was never suggested," he continued, "when the charter draft was under consideration that if a vacancy should occur, the legislature should insist on authority to tell the people of Boston, who should be mayor without election." The charter provisions, he added, were proof the legislature did not favor permitting a president of the city council to serve as acting mayor any longer than would be required to hold a special election in which the voters could choose their own chief executive.

"It is highly significant," he said, "that outspoken agitators for legislative action to nullify the city charter are Boston Republicans."

Billy Watson, "Beef Trust" Star, Buried

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Jan. 13 (INS)—Private funeral services were to be held today for Billy Watson, 78, singer and Dutch comedian who made a fortune in burlesque as owner and star of Billy Watson's Beef Trust, a galaxy of 200-pound show girls.

A heart attack caused the veteran comedian's death.

Do You Suffer 'PERIODIC' FEMALE PAIN

With its Weak, Nervous "Dragged Out" Feelings?

At such times—you like so many girls and women suffer from cramps, headache, backache, feel tired, restless, a bit moody—all due to functional periodic disturbances.

Start at once—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. It's famous not only to help relieve monthly pain but also accompanying tired, weak, nervous feelings of this nature. This is because of its soothing effect on one of woman's most important organs. Taken regularly—Pinkham's Compound helps build up resistance against such symptoms. Follow label directions.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—I am a widow with three sons in service and a fourth about to go. One of these boys is married and, of course, his allotment goes to wife. Two of the other boys send me money from their own pay. When the fourth son is inducted it will be necessary for me to get additional financial help. Is it possible for him to sign over a government allotment to me and minor daughter? H. G. Lawrence.

A—Yes, fourth son going into service may apply for allotment. It is also possible for one of the other boys now serving to make application for allotment to assist you.

Q—My brother has been reported missing in action for three months. How do I get additional news? Would Red Cross help locate him if I requested?

A—Yes, that is your best bet. Go to local chapter. May also write Adjutant General, U. S. Army, Washington, D. C.

Q—I understand that the War Department returns or retains in the U. S. the sole surviving son of a family where two or more have been killed in action. In my case, one son was killed in action and my only other son is in the So. Pacific. Why shouldn't he be spared me? L. K. Cambridge.

A—Dear Madam, I bear with you in your sorrow, but there is not much you can do in this matter unless you take it up with Adjutant General of U. S. Army, Washington 25, D. C.

Q—I enlisted in the Navy and was in a boot camp for about three weeks and received a special order discharge. Was classified by draft board 4-F on my return and later 1-C. Is there a possibility that I might be reclassified 1-A? Would like to get in Army? P. L. B., Dover, N. H.

A—Suggest that you talk with your local draft board. They are sole judges in this case.

Q—I served in the regular army for six years, receiving an honorable discharge in February, 1941. Am I considered a veteran of World War II and what benefits am I eligible for? H. R., So. Boston.

A—Yes, you are considered a veteran and eligible for benefits under G. I. Bill.

Q—Recently my brother wrote me from the So. Pacific. He is one of four in the service. He is married and his wife is quite sick. Being 42 years of age, he asks what steps should he take to get out of Navy in order to be home where badly needed. W. J. D., Somerville.

A—Under present Navy regulations, he may request a discharge, being over 42 years of age. This must be done, however, through his commanding officer or personal officer. Questions submitted Veterans' Friend Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop Sq., Boston 6, Mass., will be answered in this daily column.

Randolph Flier Tells Of Bagging 2 Nazis

How he shot down a Focke-Wulf 190 and a Messerschmitt 109 in an air battle over Germany was described in an Eighth Air Force dispatch today by 2 Lt. Francis M. Harrington, 22, of Melrose St., Randolph, awarded the Air Medal for 35 combat missions over Europe. Flying a P-47 Thunderbolt, he and his mates ran into 50 German fighters south of Coblenz. After shooting down the ME-109, he climbed to 14,000 feet, burst through a formation of FW-190's and added another kill. A graduate of Randolph High School, Harrington later attended Northeastern University. He is the son of Frank L. Harrington.

A GOOD BILL

A BILL to abolish the mandatory death penalty in first degree murder convictions has been filed in the Massachusetts Legislature.

Introduced by Rep. John W. Vaughan of Belmont, the measure has the endorsement of numerous judges, prosecutors, parole authorities, clergymen and progressive citizens.

All Representatives and Senators who desire to raise the standards of the courts should support the bill and hasten its enactment.

Few will deny that justice has been impaired frequently and considerably in this Commonwealth by the outmoded and impractical statute making the electric chair mandatory for all persons found guilty of first degree murder.

Juries have been increasingly difficult to assemble because of the growing distaste for death sentences.

In some instances there have been strong suspicions that jurors were unduly lenient with criminals as a result of the disinclination to hand them over to the executioner.

Consequently, Massachusetts has lagged behind the thirty-seven other States of the Union which allow juries to decide between death and life imprisonment, as Representative Vaughan's bill proposes.

ALL CAN HELP

THE ANNUAL campaign to aid thousands of handicapped infantile paralysis victims has been launched in Boston and throughout the nation as a prelude to the President's Birthday Ball at Boston Garden January 27, under the auspices of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Mr. Denis W. Delaney, collector of internal revenue, is serving as general chairman of the Boston drive, and the entire proceeds from the ball and the March of Dimes will be divided between the national infantile paralysis fund and Boston agencies treating the dread disease.

More than nineteen thousand Americans were stricken with infantile paralysis last year, in the second worst poliomyelitis outbreak in the nation's history.

It is impossible to say what the toll will be this year or whom the mysterious malady will afflict, for science admits it knows of nothing to prevent the spread of the too often lethal germs.

But we can be prepared as well as present-day knowledge permits. And there is a better way to accomplish this than a firm resolution on everyone's part to keep their dimes marching and to be present at the gja Birthday Ball.

BIBLE STILL LEADS

BOSTON'S taste in literature may be changed considerably when the flower of its manhood returns home from the med forces," observes a New York writer.

It seems that many of our soldier and slor sons are obtaining books barred at lme or, as Archibald G. Ogden, chairman of the Council on Books in Wartime, puts it:

"It's beginning to look as if all an author has to do to get into the armed brces library is to be banned in Boston."

A book that is attractive chiefly because somebody does not think it fit to be read is not much to recommend it.

And, unless we miss our guess, many of the fighting lads who have obtained so-called "best sellers" chiefly to see how objectionable they are, will be prompted to use the books after the first ten pages.

Contrary to the opinions of those who think it "smart" to defend literary filth, the average boy far from home prefers wholesome stories that take him back to his loved ones and revive happy memories and familiar scenes.

Servicemen may borrow "shockers," but to book they are more apt to BUY and KEEP is the Bible.

WOMEN are more creative than men. Almost every great man had a woman behind him and probably used most of her ideas. Until recently women have had no chance to bring their own thoughts into the world. So states Bernice Parks in a communication just received. Evidently Bernice is looking for an argument. She will be accommodated as soon as conditions permit. Her claim has been filed as Argument No. 988765432 and will come up for discussion following Argument No. 988765430, namely: "Are southpaw first basemen better than right-handers?" and Argument No. 988765431, namely: "What is the best way to tell if a man is married or single?"

SIDELIGHTS: "Cesar Romero is a native of Brooklyn," states a contemporary. That's not right. Cesar was born and brought up in Asbury Park, N. J. And the name he uses professionally is his real name. Clem McCarthy has probably seen more horse races than any other man alive. Yesterday he was telling me that when a young fellow he followed the quarter horse racing circuit in Idaho. Phil Shill, San Franciscan, has been suggested as a possible member of the M. N. I. A. P. Club. Hugh Blue, president of the organization, states: "Sorry. The gentleman's real first name is Phillip, which does not rhyme with Shill."

PASSING BY: George O'Connor. Of the N. Y. Police Department. George, a powerful fellow, is president of the celebrated Iceberg Athletic Club.

Members of this club go swimming in the ocean at Coney Island during the winter months. I did some swimming in New York harbor in January when I was a kid. But not by choice. I fell through the ice about a mile from shore. Maria Manton. Promising young actress. She is the 20-year-old daughter of Marlene Dietrich. Is scheduled to appear shortly in a play which will star Tabulah Bankhead. Incidentally, Miss Dietrich is insured for $250,000, with her daughter, Maria, as the beneficiary.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS:
Q—I say the hobble skirt of the type worn by Bette Davis in her last picture was popular 40 years ago. My wife says 30 years ago. Who is right?

A—Why try to argue with your wife on things like that? Still you are as nearly right as she is. The records reveal this curious style was popular between 1910 and 1914. . . . Q—What about the claim that great athletes are usually the fathers of daughters and rarely of sons? A—Nothing to that. I could fill a couple of columns with the names of great athletes who have sons.

SHOES: "Why can't tall girls get stylish shoes?" writes a statuesque Californian. "All I can buy are shoes more suitable for an elderly woman. Men manufacturers must be responsible for this situation. Don't they realize there are more tall girls in this country now than ever before in its history? If you know a shoe manufacturer tell him to wake up and look around." Note: I asked a shoe manufacturer about this. FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15—Today, I present a guest artist, who signs his name "Joe," on the letterhead of "Joseph A. Padway, Counsel, American Federation of Labor, Tower Building, Washington, D. C."

This document is dated Jan. 21, 1940, and is addressed to "Mr. George Scalise, General President, Building Service Employees' International Union."

By way of introduction, Westbrook Pegler be it explained that Joseph A. Padway is a close political friend of President Roosevelt and is the attorney-general of the American Federation of Labor.

He is also general counsel of the Teamsters' Union, whose president, Dan Tobin, gave that dinner for Mr. Roosevelt last Fall at which the President made his first frankly political speech of the campaign. Mr. Padway was present that night.

GEORGE SCALISE was president of the Building Service Employees' Union, an important unit of the A. F. of L., later was sentenced to two terms in prison for offenses which, in all, amounted to a vicious betrayal of the workers under his control who were mostly window-washers, chambermaids, scrub-women in office buildings, bell-hops in small hotels and pinboys in bowling alleys.

Previously, he had served four years in a Federal prison for an offense involving a 16-year-old girl.

Having become president of the union, Scalise applied to President Roosevelt, through the Department of Justice, for a pardon which would restore his right to vote and hold public office. This petition was endorsed by William Green, the president of the A. F. of L., and by Padway.

A FEW DAYS before the petition might have been granted by President Roosevelt, Scalise's criminal record was published in these dispatches.

The letter hereinbefore mentioned follows: "DEAR GEORGE:

"I had read Pegler's article before I received your letter and I was about to write you concerning it. I know that you feel bad over this article, for that is quite natural. Yet, Pegler is a very much disliked man, and I am sure that those who are your friends will remain your friends, regardless of the viciously over-emphasized and colored attacks he makes upon you. The mere fact that he has used such vicious language will create in the mind of the average reader a suspicion of the truth of what he says.

"Don't let it worry you. Those who know you appreciate that the comments of Pegler are false and unfounded. Those who are your friends—and I include myself in that category—will remain your friends and will think as much of you as they ever thought of you. As for myself, I am going to support your application for restoration of citizenship with all the power at my command.

"In fact, I have already discussed the matter with President Green, so as to arrange an appointment for him and me to confer with Mr. Jackson. (Editor's Note: The Attorney-General appointee.) The difficulty is that Mr. Green had to go to St. Louis. I daresay we shall have to go to the department on our return from Miami.

"In view of the Pegler letter (Editor's Note: May refer to Pegler article.) It may be better to go at that time because the Pegler letter will have been forgotten to quite a degree by then. Remember, George, there is nothing so dead as yesterday's news. Remember, too, that no person has any respect for the writer of an article who resurrects an incident that is no more than a youthful indiscretion in order to heap abuse upon such youth almost a quarter of a century after the incident.

"As I stated before, I shall again ask President Green to go with me to the Attorney General. I am glad to have your letter because it will help me to present the facts to the Attorney General and I am hopeful that we will be successful. Above all, I don't want you to become depressed.

"You must be maintained in this labor movement for the good you have done and the good you will do. Remember, I am with you 100 per cent and hundreds of others feel the same.

"I am sure our friendship will grow stronger with time. You can certainly count upon me to help you, and I will consider it a privilege to do so. With my warmest and good wishes, I am, your truly, (Signed) JOSEPH A. PADWAY."

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 15—Every company owning a fast-moving comedy—that is, almost every company—says: "...and we're trying to get Danny Kaye for the lead." Just for the record, Sam Goldwyn hasn't been exactly sleeping at the switch. He's bought a new one for Danny, "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty," considered one of James Thurber's best short stories.

Sam didn't tell me this, but I heard from New York he's paid a pretty penny for the rights and that Everett Freeman is already at work on the screen play.

I like the idea for Danny. It's the story of a meek little man dominated by his wife. He's afraid to say his soul's his own, but he has the habit of day dreaming that he's a daring soldier of fortune. Sounds all right for Danny, who I think is much better in movies than on the radio because it's so important to see him—his expressive hands, as well as his facial expressions.

ALREADY THE studios are hard hit by the President's determination to reclassify the 4-Fs and married men. Not only are the electricians and carpenters getting their reclassifications, but many actors previously deferred are now on Uncle Sam's preferred list. Keenan Wynn, son of Ed Wynn, the comedian, and father of a child, with another on the way, has been put in 1-A; Dana Andrews, who has three children, has received his ticket "oux from Uncle Sam: Vincent Price, who was in the service before and given a medical discharge and Henry Morgan are all current 1-As.

SPENCER TRACY, who is the most amiable human being in the world, isn't going to play the other male role in "They Were Expendable." Spence says he has other business to attend to and so is going to New York to meet Mrs. Tracy, who is there. He's still making retakes for "Without Love" and believes he should have a rest before he steps from one picture into another. Originally "They Were Expendable" was bought for Spence.

THAT OLD GLEAM is in Buddy de Sylva's eye and he's all hepped up over his first independent picture, "The Stork Club." He tells me he signed Barry Fitzgerald—"Borrowed from Paramount," adds Buddy, with a grin—which I suppose was pretty hard to do, since he's making the picture for Paramount. Fitzgerald plays a guy who has 39 million dollars (hardly enough) and he joins up with Betty Hutton on March 12, when Buddy's epic gets rolling.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Mayo Methot is divorcing Humphrey Bogart. She has retained Jerry Giesler, and he has conferred with Boyce's lawyer, Lloyd Wright. It took Mayo a long time to make up her mind; Jean Porter, M-G-M actress, who was in "Bathing Beauty," had her marriage to Eugene Taylor annulled on Friday; Tom Douglas is redecorating the Gable ranch, and the fluffy upstairs room formerly occupied by Carole Lombard is being done in mannish style with knotty pine. The rumor still is prevalent that Gable may marry Dolly O'Brien; Marie McDonald, who created such a furore in Chicago when she kissed some of the service men, won't kiss any for awhile. She's got the measles and is sick in Richmond, Va. She's been East doing a camp tour; three girls from the Delta Gamma Phi Beta in Nashville are bringing an award to Van Johnson, as the "Pin-Up Girl's Favorite"; Laraine Day was sent home from the studio with chills and fever—just the plain old flu; Tony Owen has rented a beach house at Santa Monica and his whispered Donna Reed will shortly go there as his bride; Mrs. Harry Brand has done a phenomenal job for the Naval Aid Auxiliary. She has sold $7500 worth of autographs of stars at 25 cents each. Mrs. Darryl Zanuck started the autograph department with Modern Screen Magazine, and it's become a terrific thing; the Jack Bennys celebrated their 18th wedding anniversary Friday. Also, Joan Bennett and Walter Wanger their fifth, and the Darryl Zanucks their 20th, all on the same day; Margaret Landry, RKO actress, married Lt. Arthur James, Sunday, in Baton Rouge. Her home is in New Orleans; Barbara Hutton, heiress and wife of Cary Grant, is in Good Samaritan Hospital a few days for observation; Faye Emerson has received a personal invitation to attend President Roosevelt's inauguration. She also has been invited to bring her little boy. The Elliott Roosevelt children also will be there. She leaves Tuesday. That's all for today. See you tomorrow!

Broiled Chops

By MARTHA LEE

WHEN YOU'RE HAVING company and you want dinner to be a bit out of the ordinary, you cannot do better than to have thick, luscious broiled lamb chops, served in a stylish manner.

Broiled chops, when properly cooked, have a special sort of glamor. Lamb chops are perfect for broiling, because they are tender and may be served either medium or well done. Here is a menu that will do justice to any hostess:

MENU

Broiled Loin Lamb Chops with Vegetable Garnish and Boiled Rice
Mashed Hubbard Squash
Cloverleaf Rolls
Butter or Margarine
Mint Jelly
Refrigerator Lemon Pie
Hot Coffee

For that extra "style" in serving, we have a suggestion. Cut large, thin slices of onion; place on each a slice of tomato; on top of that a ring of green pepper. Place these in the broiler just long enough to be heated, but not brown; then arrange them around the broiled lamb chops on a hot platter. Put a spoonful of fluffy boiled rice in the center of each pepper ring. Be sure to serve immediately. If you want your guests to enjoy all these foods at their best.

CHOOSE YOUR CHOPS

The three most familiar cuts of lamb chops are the rib, loin and shoulder chops. The rib chops are the smallest, but their meat is especially tender and juicy. If the meat is cut away from the end of the rib bone, they are called French lamb chops; then you put paper frills on the bone ends when you serve them.

The loin chops are somewhat larger and contain T-shaped bones (corresponding to T-bone steaks of beef). The shoulder chops may be cut from the rib side or the arm side; the former are blade bone chops, the latter are round bone chops. These are larger than either the rib or loin chops and are often referred to as lamb steaks.

All three kinds of lamb chops may be either broiled or pan-broiled. It is preferable to have chops cut at least one-inch thick for broiling; pan-broiling is an excellent method for cooking thinner chops.

LOIN LAMB CHOPS, BROILER STYLE

4 loin lamb chops, cut 1-inch thick
Salt and pepper
Onion, tomato, and green pepper slices
Cooked white rice

Set regulator to broil. Place chops on broiler rack, allowing two to three inches between the surface of the chops and the heat. Brown on one side (seven to eight minutes), season and turn. Brown on other side, and season. Serve with garnish of onion, tomato, and green pepper slices arranged in stacks, and heated in broiler, fill each pepper ring with hot cooked rice. Serve immediately.

REFRIGERATOR LEMON PIE

Graham Cracker Pastry
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
1 can (1-1/2 cups) sweetened condensed milk
9 tbsp. lemon juice

LOIN LAMB CHOPS, BROILER STYLE

YOU, TOO, CAN HAVE pin-up possibilities and look like RKO's newest glamor girl, Laraine Day, if you abide by the charmed efficacy of an improved cream wax and free your face, arms and legs of unsightly, unwanted hair... arch-destroyer of feminine loveliness and appeal.

Grated rind 1 1/2 lemons

Line nine-inch pie pan with graham cracker pastry. Beat egg yolks slightly and stir in milk gradually. Add lemon juice, a little at a time, stirring in lemon rind and pour mixture into pastry shell. Cover with meringue and bake in slow oven (325 deg. F.) about 15 minutes, until lightly browned. Cool and chill in refrigerator several hours before serving. Makes one nine-inch pie.

GRAHAM CRACKER PASTRY

1 cup fine graham cracker crumbs
1-1/2 cup butter or margarine

Roll or grind crackers to make 1 cup crumbs. Melt butter in 9-inch pie pan, add sugar and crumbs and mix thoroughly. Press mixture evenly and firmly around sides and bottom of pan. Chill before adding filling, makes one 9-inch pastry shell.

Unwanted Hair Vanishes

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

THERE'S ALWAYS something to worry a poor gal. If it isn't the unruly hair on her head... it's the unattractive, unwanted growth on her arms and legs... the annoying stubble on her chin... or the bristling miniature mustachio on her upper lip.

Don't try to figure out why you have this unfeminine problem... Nature isn't that acquiescent in supplying the explanation... just do something about it and be happy. You just can't sit idly by and watch the tiny prickly swords grow longer and longer... like a cat's whiskers... not when an improved cream wax treatment... which takes less time than a manicure... gently removes for weeks... not days... every tiny hair.

This effective, yet harmless, procedure of removing unwanted hair is pleasant and long lasting and presages no bristly regrowths... because it's not a chemical or an artificial shave. It definitely discourages irritating regrowths, because it contains no sulphide and is made of the purest ingredients. It quickly energizes into a soft, clinging cream... and when you yank off the cloth contact... off comes the stubborn growth from the affected area... thereby solving one of the most important problems to good grooming.

TREATMENT FOR STUBBORN HAIR

When the growth is very stubborn or the hair very short and bristly try the ice treatment. Apply the cream wax and cloth as per full directions... and after being sure the cloth is well pressed... rub a piece of ice over it. The ice hardens the cream so that it gets a firm grip on the imbedded hair. A dab of witch hazel to the treated areas... and your skin is as smooth as a baby.

The beauty of this cream wax is in its effectiveness as well as simplicity of procedure. And it can be used on the lip... on the bridge of the nose... on the nape of the neck... under the arms... on well as on the forearms and legs.

For the name of this improved cream wax for hair removal, phone the Beauty Department, LIB-erty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

New Shades for Spring

By BETTINA BEDWELL

EVERY day that passes now brings women nearer to the very high colored Springtime the fashion designers have prepared for them.

And it's not just ordinary colors you'll find in the best styles. Colors like tangerine, fir green, chartreuse, raspberry ice red and lime are the shades the top designers seem to prefer.

When it comes to simple sports clothes, the way of many is to pair off two vital colors in one dress, and for this the jumper dress is a favorite.

Miss Dulin has sketched one in two of the best Spring colors. The dress is chartreuse yellow, and has a skirt that buttons down the front with a cap-sleeved open-front waist. Under this goes a waist of violet and white striped cotton, with a hairline stripe of chartreuse in it. The model comes from Takak, one of California's bright designing stars.

Fashion

FLATTERING and ever so new is this above-the-hairline front and deep, head-fitting back bonnet... with a high crown superbly shaped and molded, developed in Verdone... which was acclaimed at the Millinery Creators' Guild showing in New York. Tiny silken flowers in the same shade form a frame for a pretty face... and nestle in the waves of a smart coiffure.—R. M.

My Day By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Sunday—Yesterday at 12:30 I went down to the Capitol Theater to open the Mile of Dimes campaign. It was a gray and intermittently rainy day, clearing up now and then for a few minutes and pouring down upon us in between times. But nothing seems to dampen the ardor of movie-goers, and the line outside the Capitol Theater began to show the dimes dropping in as people made their way into the theater! Afterward I went over to the Lincoln Colonnade Theater, where there was another opening ceremony for the Mile of Dimes campaign.

In the afternoon I had an opportunity to talk for a little while with a group of union women who are going to Great Britain on an exchange visit. I am very glad that these representatives are going to have a chance to see what their fellow-workers in Great Britain are doing.

I think they will come back, however, feeling that the British government, because of the greater need for women workers, is more alert than we are in providing the services which are essential for the family when the woman goes to work outside the home.

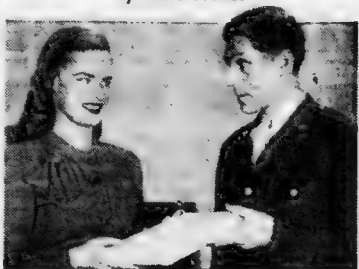

FOR EXAMPLE, there is still very little done in providing adequate eating facilities at our plants, shipyards and factories.

Incidentally, I was told recently that women workers in the textile mills in some parts of our country are expected to work a full eight hours with no time off for lunch. In such cases there is not even a question of providing them with an opportunity for a hot meal; they are simply given no time to eat at all. Many excuses and reasons are given for this, but the basic reason must be that many of us have not yet learned that human beings are not machines.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15—Mr. Al Morano, who serves as guide, adviser and secretary to Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, came into this office the other night chuckling his head off.

"Listen," he gurgled, "this will positively kill you! Ho!—Ho!—Ho!"

It took some time to get Mr. Morano quieted, because he kept bursting into laughter. Finally I managed to get the story from him piecemeal.

It seems Mr. Morano took advantage of Mrs. Luce's absence abroad to vacation in Miami Beach. While there he became very friendly with J. W. Gratton, Canadian horse owner.

One day Mr. Gratton invited him to Hialeah Park. They picked up a mutual friend, Frank M. Cleveland, a notorious party who has his personal letterheads inscribed "Taxpayer-at-Large."

Mr. Cleveland makes a specialty of looking at the dark side of everything, particularly taxes and race horses. Furthermore, he is obsessed with the idea that a constant jinx dogs him.

On the way to the track Mr. Gratton tried to interest Mr. Cleveland in going shares in the purchase of a racing steed named Great Divide. Mr. Cleveland demurred, arguing he is so unlucky the horse undoubtedly would drop dead or become permanently disabled the instant of purchase.

"That is ridiculous," said Mr. Gratton. "Nothing can go wrong. This horse is a wonderful buy. He is in a claiming race today and we can grab him for $3500. That's only $1750 apiece."

Mr. Gratton went on to argue that they could make a wonderful profit with "Great Divide" and use the earnings to buy more race horses. At last Mr. Cleveland gave in—and they bought the nag.

The new owners of "Great Divide" saw Mr. Morano off when he left for Washington. Mr. Cleveland was still grinning that something terrible was bound to happen and Mr. Gratton was reassuring him.

"I told Mr. Cleveland was being a really pessimistic," said Mr. Morano, "until I got back to Washington. Then I found his fears were well-grounded. The first newspaper I picked up carried the story of Jimmy Byrnes putting the ban on racing!"

I TOLD Mr. Morano it was mildly amusing, but I didn't see anything to get hysterical over. "Look at the letter!" he choked. "I sent Cleveland a card of sympathy—and this is what he writes back: 'Dear Friend Morano: Gratton just asked me what use I should do with our horse. I said 'Look at his name. Doesn't that give you an idea? We'll divide him. We'll cut one half and send the other half to Morano in Washington. He won't have any difficulty finding an awful hell there to make a whole horse of him!'"

SAMUEL ANDERSON, program vice-chairman of the War Production Board, has two buzzers on his desk. One is labeled "Mr. Haimes"; the other, "Girls."

That's all—just "Girls."

HERE ARE two pieces of incidental intelligence, which I submit without comment:

1—The OPA has just set ceiling prices for playing pool on the south side of Chicago.

2—James Douglas, vice chairman of the Mines and Minerals division of WPB has his home telephone listed under the name of his wife, Mrs. Helen Douglas.

Since the new Congress this Mrs. Douglas has been driven almost batty from answering the telephone. People call all hours of the day and night—many long distance from California.

"The only explanation I can find," said Mrs. Douglas, "is that there seems to be another Helen Douglas in town who apparently is connected with Congress. I believe her middle name is 'Gahagan'—or something like that!"

MRS. JANET GREEN has just learned that her husband, Lt. Col. George B. Green, has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal for achievement in sustained military operations. Lt. Col. Green is chief flight surgeon with the 67th Fighter Wing Headquarters.

"I always said that fellow Green was a fine man," commented Mrs. Green. "That's what I always said—and now the Army concurs!"

... Alex Gard, the Russian caricaturist, was an incurable spats-wearer before he went into the Navy. He loved them so much he took his favorite pair of pearl-gray spats with him when he left town. These he keeps among his things; now and then he takes them out and sighs over them.

KITTY CARLISLE'S culinary craze is omelet recipes. She knows how to cook 50 different varieties, ranging from chocolate to orange flavored ones, if you will pardon the ugh. She's collecting even more, if possible. . . . Alma Archer, the glamorous beauty editor, is fussed on zebras. Her apartment furniture is all zebra-striped, the walls are covered with pictures of the jazzy animals, and the shelves with miniatures. And if she had room for a live pet zebra, she'd probably manage that, too. . . . Every Friday night, come hit, flop, or important business, Producer Max Gordon drops everything to dine with his elderly mother. . . . Edward G. Robinson, whose art collection is world-famous, loves to bamboozle amateur connoisseurs by hanging a water-color job by a 3-year-old next to the old and new masters, and allowing the unsuspecting visitor to go into raptures about this splendid example of "modern art."

the Touchdown Club the other night, attended by practically all Washington's notables, there was quite a manifestation of high spirits.

Those who achieved great animation included Vice-President-elect Harry Truman, Speaker Sam Rayburn, War Mobilizer Jimmy Byrnes—who was forced to listen to a crack about "Congress fiddles while Jimmy Byrnes"—FBI Boss J. Edgar Hoover and Adm. Emory S. Land.

Particularly playful was our distinguished Chief of Detectives Bob Barrett. He spent a happy evening giving notables the boot.

In his party were three priests. Chief Barrett was busy giving the blazing tootsie to a victim when he suddenly let out an agonized howl.

One of the reverend fathers had given the hoofster a hoof!

MONDAY MUSINGS: As the most improved performer on the airwaves, we nominate none other than our lovable neighbor, Louella O. Parsons. . . . The famous Hollywood columnist (and author of "The Gay Illiterate").

... Miss Parsons' delivery is now most pleasing and professional. . . . Her Hollywood newspaper column has always been just that, of course. . . . But the switch from the shielding umbrella of a newspaper byline to the intimate projection of a personality through his or her voice is not encompassed easily. . . . And often not successfully.

THE COMING of Bob Hope and his famous show is the talk of the town already, and the run on the Boston Garden's box-office, starting tomorrow, for the night of Jan. 24, is expected to be heavy. . . . Not since this newspaper and its Boston affiliates sponsored the Battle of Music between Benny Goodman and Rudy Vallee in the fall of 1939 has there been an attraction which so surely loomed as a Garden sellout. . . . The cause of aid for service men in hospitals is dear to the great Hope heart—as has been proved so convincingly. . . . It will be a show to live in Boston's memory.

ARTIE SHAW and many of his spotlight musicians haven't missed a supper at Ruby Foo's Den since the Shavians opened Thursday at the RKO-Boston. . . . Miss Foo, in person, has been making frequent appearances at her favorite restaurant these wintry nights, too. . . . Mike Todd is planning to surprise Mae West and the "Catherine Was Great" troupe with a complimentary set-to at Ruby's famous Hudson St. table a week from tonight (when that play opens at the Colonial).

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: In Harper's, an essay called "Alcoholics Are People" is the interesting work of a Methodist minister named Rev. Alton J. Smith and like the Smith named Betty who wrote "A Tree Grows in . . ." Rev. Mr. Smith comes from there as well. . . . Maj. Arnold Segal, U. S. A. of Cambridge, is another Harvard medical grad who has been decorated. . . . The major has a presidential citation (for service in the Pacific theater) and the Bronze Star Medal for gallantry in the European theater. . . . Aside to Jack Caniff, of the M. J. Perkins (A. L.) Post: Sorry that the note reached us too late. . . .

THE COLONIAL Theater in Boston is an incubator of good fortune for musical shows. . . . "On the Town" looks like a smash, and "Sing Out Sweet Land" seems to be "in" on Broadway. . . . Of course, "Oklahoma" bowed in at the Colonial under the title of "Away We Go!" . . . That title was changed for New York although it is coincidental that the No. 1 film of 1944 had both "go" and "way" in its title.

IT REQUIRES nearly a paragraph to give the organization its full title. . . . Nevertheless the enterprise shown by the Massachusetts Package Stores Ass'n, Inc., in transporting the entire company of the Johnny Morgan radio show from New York to the Statler tonight, as part of the entertainment of the outfit's annual banquet, is worthy of a boost.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 15—Van Johnson and Lana Turner have just completed doing a scene for "Week-end At The Waldorf," and I figure this takes care of the sweater and socks department. The picture can't miss.

It has Lana for the boys who are interested in sweaters, and such goodies; and then it has Van Johnson for that army of girls.

Lana Turner

Van, for the information of the bobby sockers, was wearing red socks, didn't have his shoes on, and had just finished kissing Lana for the scene in the picture. Now that his work was done (he had to kiss Lana several times before Director Robert Leonard was satisfied; it didn't matter what Lana thought of the kiss, Director Leonard had to be satisfied when Van did the kissing and Lana was the kissed), Van put on his shoes. A secretary, who had been waiting, told him that there was mail to be answered from a couple of newly formed Van Johnson Fan Clubs. He seemed thrilled by the news of these clubs.

"Oh, you don't have to put it on," I said. "I'm not," replied Van Johnson. "I love it. I love it every time they ask for my autograph. I love it every time the fans mob me. I'm not like some other actors who, after they click, pretend that they don't like it or want it. I love it."

He said this with such sincerity that I knew he wasn't putting it on.

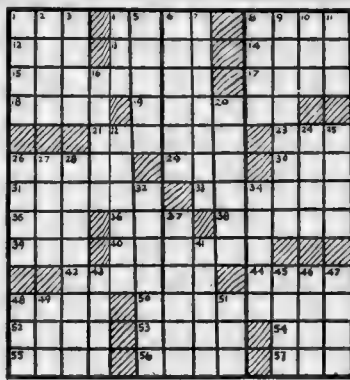

"I'll tell you something you don't know," said Van Johnson. "I know exactly how those fans feel. For years I've been a member of a Joan Crawford Fan Club. I've got an autographed picture of her at home. I'm very proud that I'm still a member of the Joan Crawford Fan Club."

Your Studebaker dealer is a good man to know

THROUGHOUT the war, Studebaker dealers have become recognized more and more as useful members of their communities.

Like all good Americans, they've co-operated fully in national and local wartime programs, of course. But it's in their important role as automotive transportation specialists that Studebaker dealers and their employees have helped the war effort most effectively.

In order to do everything possible to keep cars and trucks in service, Studebaker dealers constantly endeavor to get new and better tools and equipment.

They continue to train their mechanics in special procedures worked out by Studebaker factory experts. They gladly supply the public with reliable information on wartime regulations covering car and truck operations.

Studebaker dealers realize the war is far from over yet. They know cars and trucks may need more attention than ever in the months ahead. Like you, they're putting victory ahead of every other consideration. However long it takes for our armed forces to win, Studebaker dealers will gladly help you keep your car or truck rolling.

Greek Truce Ends Fighting

ATHENS, Jan. 15 (AP)—A truce ending hostilities between the left wing ELAS militia and British troops went into effect today.

The peace with EAM leaders was negotiated by Lt. Gen. Scobie, British commander, who yesterday told cheering demonstrators that his forces would protect the Greek people and their liberties against revolution from any quarter.

Moderates, former members of the EAM, political organization of the ELAS, said they had completely disassociated themselves from that movement and favor inclusion of Communist delegates in an all-party cabinet, provided the Communists maintained no private armies.

Here is a Message and a Promise to You Who are Waiting for a Telephone

BECAUSE the very lives of our fighting men depend on our giving them practically all the telephone equipment that can be made, thousands of civilians in all parts of the country who want service must wait.

How long? We wish we could tell you. Meanwhile, we are providing facilities as they become available to those most in need, in accordance with government regulations set up to apportion service in the fairest way.

For example, preference is given where certain conditions of illness are verified by the attending physician, and under certain circumstances preference is given to wives of men away from home in the armed forces.

Of course service is provided immediately in cases where public health, safety and welfare are involved. None so qualified has had to wait for a telephone.

From time to time the War Production Board has modified these regulations, and the scope of the preference list has become somewhat broader. We intend to keep those on the waiting list posted periodically on such changes, and we'd like to have them keep us posted on changes in their own circumstances which would alter their status under these regulations.

By waiting, by accepting the inconvenience and hardships of doing without a telephone, you are sending your telephone straight to the fighting fronts.

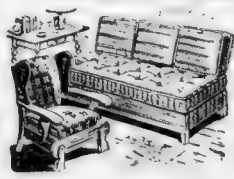

Here is Our Promise:

Your application will not be forgotten or overlooked. It will be filled at the earliest possible time in its proper turn.

Reds Plan Own Trials for Nazis

LONDON, Jan. 15 (AP)—Ilya Ehrenburg, Moscow's best-known newspaperman, declared in Pravda today that Russia intends to deal with German war criminals in her own way.

"We ourselves will judge our torturers and this we will entrust to nobody," Ehrenburg said in the article, broadcast by the Moscow radio.

Russia is not a member of the Allied War Crimes Commission in London.

U. S., Britain Trade Captives With Nazis

LONDON, Jan. 15 (AP)—The former luxury liner Arundel Castle has sailed from Liverpool with approximately 1000 Germans, mostly wounded prisoners of war but including a number of women. They will be exchanged for British and American citizens in Switzerland.

The liner Gripsholm is bringing a number of German civilians from the Americas who will be exchanged for American civilians and a few soldiers.

Grown in Color

LONDON, Jan. 15 (AP)—Naturally colored cotton from which fade-resistant cloth is woven is being grown in Russia, the Moscow radio said today.

Thus far green, rose, lemon and brown hues have been developed, the broadcast said. Last year 1,000 yards of cloth were woven from the colored cotton, and the year 700 tons will be grown from which a million yards of colored cloth will be produced, Moscow added.

FLOWER SHOW MARCH 10

The 74th New England spring flower show of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society will be held in Horticultural Hall, March 10 through 17, Arno H. Nehrling, director of exhibitions, announced today.

Tonight

WILBUR — "STAR IN THE WINDOW" comedy by L. Bush-Fekete, Sidney Sheldon and Mary Helen Fay, presents Peggy Conklin as a demobilized WAC who finds adjustment to civilian life difficult. Directed by Jack Daniels; produced by Edward Choate and Marie Louise Elkins.

Thursday

BRATTLE HALL — "OWEN B WINGROVE," a play by Henry James dealing with a young man's struggle for peace in a warring world, will be presented jointly by the Harvard Dramatic Club and the Radcliffe Ider on three successive evenings. "A Door Must Be Open or Shut," Alfred De Musse's comedy, will be the companion production, with Mrs. Mark Howe directing both.

Saturday

N. E. MUTUAL HALL — "THE DRUNKARD," produced for the first time in the old Boston Museum during the season, 1844-45, will be presented by the M. I. T. Dramashop as the Centennial Anniversary production. The play was enacted to aid in the cause of temperance. It will be given in the original version without alterations.

Continuing

COLONIAL — "THE TEMPEST," Margaret Webster's rewarding Shakespearean revival and the first production of the play to be seen here since 1928, stars Vera Zorina as Ariel, Canada Lee as Caliban and Arnold Moss as Prospero. Produced by Cheryl Crawford.

PLYMOUTH — "THE OVERTONS," Vincent Lawrence's new comedy with Arlene Francis, Glenda Farrell, Jack Whiting and Walter N. Greaza, showcases an eventful day with the Overtons. Elisabeth Bergner directed.

SHUBERT — "THE MERRY WIDOW," J. J. Shubert's revival of the famous operetta by Franz Lehar, presents Monica Moore in title role and Frank Melton as Prince Danilo. Supporting players include Malcolm Lee Beggs, Ken Kelly and Nina Olivette.

"I wuz thinkin'..."

by Izzy ORT

Who pops in on me in me popular Grille and swank El Tropic Room da other day but that wonderweight, World's Champion Freddy Cochran now a Petty Officer in the Navy. With Freddy wuz his wife, Two-Ton Tony Galento and his manager... A great bunch they are with a lot of interestin' stories to tell... Got a letter from me nephew with the U. S. Army across. Bert Einziger is his name, and fokes, he's really been thru that military mill. Been in almost every major engagement over there in Belgium, Holland, France, and therabouts, and has been wounded and is in a hospital. Sez he is anxious to get back to that front line battle action! That's real spirit for you, and wudn't it be great if all of us here at home had the same spirit of sacrifice in our home front activities! Remember fokes, a few extra overtime hours in a defense plant is nuthin' compared to a night of dodgin' shells in a muddy foxhole, so let's make it our business to put in the hours, and to put it into the hour!... After you've done yer part, and you're ready for some high class entertainin' and dancin', visit me swank El Tropic Room or popular Grille on Essex Street, where there's music and hootin' from noon until cotsin' time. The Man From Leyte And the 48-Hour Week

By AUSTEN LAKE

"WELL, HERE WE ARE," said the Marine major wearily. There was a spasmodic twitch at a corner of his mouth and an oriental slant to one eye where a Jap grenade had torn the tissue of the brow. "Here we are squabbling over the nurse and manpower draft." He dragged thoughtfully on a cigarette and cast the butt away as a penitent might repudiate his sins. . . "and hailing the triumph of a 48-hour week, with time 'n' a half."

Austen Lake

The major was just back from Leyte with a drain in his side, a tracery of purple scars on his face and a permanent stoop. He wore a cordovan brace where the ulna bone of his left wrist had been shattered. "There was a sort of lagoon out there," he said, as one relates a disjointed dream, "The Monkeys held one side and we held the other. It was raining—not rain in pennies and dimes like we know it here, but rain in silver dollars and quarters that filled our gouged-out burrows till it was like lying in warm bouillon. It came straight down and rose from the ground in a steaming, stinking mist. And all the time the Jap blazed away with his submachine guns and mortars and threw hand grenades like confetti at a Mardi Gras."

THE MAJOR SPAT REFLECTIVELY in a bedpan. There was a warm smoulder in his good eye. "Forty-eight hour week," he said, as a sort of cuss, "We stayed under bullets and rain for 108 hours without relief and only a skeleton ration."

"O we were a Union all right," he said, "Only we didn't arbitrate our troubles or count any pay hours. There were months when we didn't get any pay and didn't need any because there was nothing to buy. Pay didn't seem important to a man who scrunched in a slit trench and tried to shrink to insect-size when he heard Jap mortar shells come over with that ghostly, spiralling noise. Time was just a meaningless void where minutes run into hours and days and your clock-tick was the pulse in your head."

"There weren't any drug stores out there 'n' if you had disintery, which was most of the time, you just did your sanitary best without any clean, white-tiled toilets where you could enjoy a quiet smoke and chat about shop news while your machine lay idle. You couldn't smoke at all, because your tobacco was wet and, anyway, the flare of a match or the red glow of a cigarette made a fatal target for Jap snipers. So the best you could do was to hang the moist end of a bull on your tip or maybe chew the fuzzy filling to offset the stink of the lagoon and the mortifying bodies."

The major grinned mirthlessly on that side of his face which was not paralyzed. The other side remained a flaccid mask. "But there was no indecision, temporizing or debate over issues or delays in production, or any gabble about priorities, control, inflation or farm prices."

"Like that night when I whispered to my platoon sergeant and said, 'Mike, take a couple squads through that cocoa grove and kill that goddam mortar crew.' I didn't say, 'Please' or 'If you don't mind,' although these kids were like sons to me. And the sergeant didn't say, 'Wait, that's contrary to contract. We gotta see what the executive committee says.' He just said, 'Aye, aye sir' and picked the nearest handful of men and they went slithering off through the muck on their bellies."

"Most of those 16 kids came from mill towns, farms and rural backlands and averaged around 21 years. And all of them had been pretty much chewed by Jap fire. The sergeant had a neck wound and a ricochet through the fleshy part of his shoulder. But hell, we all wore bandages of some kind."

"A couple of hours later a corporal squirmed back with five men and grunted something that sounded like 'objective taken sir.' I'm not sure what he said, because he fainted as he spoke. His cheek was laid open from a knife thrust and the flesh hung down in a loose flap and his poncho was oily with blood."

"THE LAY THERE WHILE A PHARMACIST'S mate dusted the wound with sulphur and stuck back the flap with adhesive strips and gave him a pint of plasma. But it didn't do any good, because just as dawn came and the rain stopped like somebody turned off the spigot, one of those monkey bastards sneaked in and heaved a hand grenade that killed the corporal and the mate and got me in the left side, like I am now."

"Out there," said the major, with a sweeping gesture of one who might indicate the swirl of a wintry storm while sitting beside the hearthside warmth of home, "out there we get a different perspective of what we are fighting for. We didn't translate it into high-blown terms like freedom and democracy—nothing so vague. It meant the right to whip a New Hampshire trout stream with a dry fly, or take our kids to the beach, or dig in the garden, or listen to the piano, or drop into Pat's Tap for a short beer, or watch a woman darn socks by lamplight. Home was all we knew and home was what we were fighting to get back to."

There was an impersonal tone in the major's voice as though he was sowing his words on the winds and knew they were falling on fallow soil. "We were not well informed," he said, "but sometimes we got month-old papers which told of strikes, quibbles in Congress, hoarding, black markets, public screaming over ration laws, lots of loose fun-money and such stuff."

"It was very confusing and if you could have simmered down our thoughts they would have made a common voice which said, 'You damn fools! You're tossing away the very things that keep us fighting—the simple things of home. . . .'"

A ward nurse came trundling a white enameled surgical wagon and wearing an ominous smile. "U-Oh," said the major, grimacing, "here's the 'good humor' lady. . . ." He indicated the drains in his side. "Now, if you'll excuse me, I'll have my spark plugs cleaned. . . ."

Tech's Casey Sprint Ace

By HUCK FINNEGAN

Classiest sprinter seen in Greater Boston's early season college meets is Tech's Bill Casey. This 6-3, 165-pound blond from Highland Park, Ill., defeated Tufts' best in the 50 and 300 on the week-end, and Tufts has some winged feet, among them Ray Southwick and Bob Kelleher.

Casey had a full yard advantage over his rivals in the 50 and eased up toward the finish as he won the 300 in 34.4, fast going on Tufts' heavy dirt track.

He comes out of the holes like forked lightning and gets a terrific lift with his arm and shoulder action. He'll be worth watching in the "Y" and BAA dashes, and should be at his peak by the time the 104-A's roll around in March.

Currently, Coach Oscar Hedlund is building him up to run the 440. He's well on his way as he proved in the 300 at Tufts. He should be invaluable to the mile relay as a lead-off man.

Casey entered Tech as a V-12 student on July 1, 1943, just two weeks after graduating from Highland Park High. He did a "little running" in school and a "little more" last winter at Tech. He'll celebrate his 20th birthday next Saturday, and he'll probably celebrate it by winning his first dash.

"Funny thing," smiled the affable blond, "I had planned to attend Tech anyway to major in mechanical engineering. Now here I am doing just that at Uncle Sam's expense instead of my own."

Tufts seems to have another hurdle of the Dugger-Hall-Sparrow stripe in Alan Wolozin, 17-year-old civilian. He had no trouble winning the hurdles against Tech, and earlier he had defeated Dartmouth's Snyder, who turned around and defeated Army's Christensen and Lamar, both highly rated. . . . Improvement of 18-year-old Dick Porter assured Tufts of a strong two-mile relay team. Last year, as an Andover student, Porter never bettered 1:23 for the 600. In picking up a third to Tufts' Kennedy and Tech's Goldie, he did 1:19.2. Porter is a slim, supple six-footer, a stylist in action. His home is in Shrewsbury. Homans, Blanchard and Kennedy round out a fast quartet.

Gil Dodds filled a Sunday preaching engagement in Chicago but will complete his training for the "Y" two-mile at BC's track. He's running the mile as fast as he ever did, but still hasn't made up his mind to compete in the major indoor meets. He's contemplating accepting a proposition to make a preaching tour of the West Coast next month. . . . Jack Ryder has material for a fine relay at the Heights but unless footballers Weir and Carney find more time to practice, plans may go askew. . . . Herb McKenley will run the 600 at the "Y" and has been invited to compete in the special "600" at Millrose.

Feller Pleads For '45 Baseball

SEATTLE, Jan. 15 (AP)—Rapid Robert Feller, the kid from Van Meter, Ia., who was the smoke ball king of the major leagues, was back in the United States today with the conviction that baseball "is one of the American ideals we in the service are fighting for."

Chief Specialist Feller made port yesterday after an 18 months tour of duty which took him into both Pacific and Atlantic oceans. Baseball gives the men in foxholes and on the ship at sea something "to dream of seeing again at home," said Husky Bob. "I can't for the life of me see how a handful of 4-Fs and over-age men playing baseball can make much difference in our war effort."

Bruins in Toughest Slump in Long Time

By BILL GRIMES

During the disastrous four-game road trip, which wound up last night in Chicago with a 4 to 1 defeat, the Bruins lost two "cousins," the Maple Leafs and the Blackhawks, along with a half interest, in fourth place.

Manager Art Ross, who didn't go to the Windy City, received the sad news in his drawing room while on his way home from Toronto.

The Rossens are in their worst slump in years, six games without so much as a draw. Early in the season, they were the top scoring club by a wide margin. But, in their last six games, they have scored only 12 times to 28 by their opponents.

Capt. Bill Cowley and Bill Jennings have accounted for six, three each of the Bruins' dozen goals and the "Cowboy" has figured in scoring of four of the other nine tallies, while Jennings assisted on last night's lone marker. Frankie Marion is the runner-up to Cowley and Jennings with three assists and Kenny Smith has come up with two goals.

Manager Ross is at a loss to understand what has happened to the Bruins' offense. Out of a clear sky, the Rossens lost their offense punch. They didn't have a single shot on Mike Karakas last night during the third period. So, something is radically wrong, somewhere.

Fortunately, the Canucks broke Rangers' five games without a defeat streak last night. Otherwise, the Bruins would have been in fifth place when they took on the Toronto Maple Leafs tomorrow night at the Garden.

Bill Thoms will arrive in town tomorrow morning and will be in the Boston lineup against Toronto. Although he has played center ice during most of his long career in the N. H. L., Thoms has also played left wing with better than average success. At the start of the 1934-44 season, Thoms centered for Doug Bentley and Billy Mosienko for four games.

Then, he moved over to left wing to Clint Smith, but after four games, was hospitalized with ulcers and didn't return to action until last fall. Early this season, Manager Paul Thompson used Thoms on the Hawks' defense and reported that Bill handled himself pretty well.

The Bruins use outer defenses even more than they do forwards. Although they have been beaten for a total of 123 goals, neither Harvey Bennett nor Paul Bibeaue has been held wholly responsible for the avalanche of rubber that has come to rest in Boston nets this season.

Manager Ross, and even the experts, realize that the Bruins' most glaring weakness is the outer defense. The club is playing a different type of hockey this year. It's been customary to send five men down the ice at the slightest provocation. But, unfortunately, on too many occasions, the defensemen are not alert enough to get back in time to be of any assistance to the goalies. But, for some remarkable goal minding by Bennett and Bibeaue, the S.R.O. sign would have been hanging in the front of the Boston cages during most of the Bruins' games.

Apparently, the Red Wings still have the Indian sign on the Maple Leafs, for they shut out Coach "Hap" Day's charges last night 3 to 0.

Pres. Mervyn "Red" Dutton is all smiles today. The attendance figures at New York were 15,697, Chicago 15,101 and Detroit 14,127 for a grand total of 49,925. And that ain't hay!

Jack Sharkey Sensible To Refuse Galento Go

By JACK CONWAY

A PERSON DID not have to possess too much intelligence to know that Jack Sharkey's final answer for a three-round exhibition bout with Tony Galento would be a strong NO. At the age of 42 Sharkey sensibly concluded that the business of throwing punches in a ring should be left to younger men who can give a sports loving public action for their money.

One of the reasons why Sharkey became heavyweight champion of the world was because he knew what he was capable of doing under fictitious fire and then went in and did it. He also knew when he had passed his peak and prepared to step away gracefully from the sport he loved and at which he earned more than a million dollars.

Jack Sharkey

After Sharkey lost his title to gigantic Primo Carner, Johnny Buckley signed him for a Chicago bout with "King" Levinson and for a Philadelphia match with Tommy Loughran. The former champion was guaranteed $25,000 for each bout which was a lot of money for boxing.

Sharkey trained for the Levinson bout in Chicago. I had dinner with the Sharkey party at the Edgewater Beach Hotel the night before the bout.

Later in the evening I chatted with Sharkey as we sat at a table in the marine outdoor dining room and looked out at Lake Michigan.

"How do you feel about the Levinson bout?" I asked.

Sharkey grinned and he looked the part of physical fitness to the eye.

"Sparring partners who formerly couldn't hit me on the back are now hitting me on the chin," admitted Sharkey frankly.

The former champion had lost his speed after a dozen years of fighting, and he knew that without speed even his educated left hand, the best I have ever seen in boxing, could not carry him to many more victories.

Obliged to Ease Up

SHARKEY LOST the decision to Levinson as a result of being knocked down by a sweeping right hand punch in the first round. It took Sharkey seven rounds to get over the effects of the punch. He did not even know he had been dropped to the canvas until I told him about it after the bout. He had fought back instinctively. His rally in the last three rounds was not enough to win.

Sharkey decided to go through with his bout with Loughran, a weak hitter, and then retire. I thought Sharkey beat Loughran, but the latter got the decision.

"Sharkey got all of the money (Jack's purse was $25,000 and the show only drew $23,000) and they had to give Loughran something," explained Benny Leonard from his press room seat.

On his way to the championship, Sharkey knocked Loughran out in three rounds at an outdoor show in New York.

Sharkey received a guarantee of $100,000 for that bout, while Loughran pulled down $65,000 on a percentage arrangement when the contest drew $270,000.

"I felt like a youngster climbing over the fence of a ball park who is hit on the head by a bat," Loughran said to me after the bout.

A right-hand punch to the jaw had turned Tommy around and left him looking out at the crowd. "Get me a chair," Loughran said to Referee Lou Magnolia. "I want some place to sit down at."

Magnolia stopped the bout and saved Loughran from unnecessary punishment.

After Joe Louis had been knocked out by Max Schmeling, Sharkey tried a comeback, but it ended, following a victory over Fred Brubaker, when he was stopped by Louis.

Sharkey Top Referee

SINCE THEN SHARKEY has done considerable refereeing and has spoken frequently at athletic nights. He was the first prominent athlete to fly overseas following the African invasion. He toured Africa and Italy with Lefty Gomez and Freddy Corcoran, and is rated as the No. 1 athletic favorite with service men.

Tonight in Lexington, where Sharkey will be a speaker along with Paul Bowser and this writer at a dinner of the civic and business leaders of that historic town, he may tell what he thinks will happen to boxing when our fighting men come home with victory from all parts of the world.

Callahan Club Offers Heavies

After working on the long distance phones for 72 hours Jack O'Brien and Eddie Mack came up with a heavyweight bout between Johnny White of Newark, N. J. and "Big Henry" Jones, now of Philadelphia for a Callahan A. C. show at Mechanics Building on Thursday night. The winner has been promised a fight with Elmer Ray.

Johnny White only recently conquered Jimmy Johnston's South American sensation, the "Mighty Menecelli," at the St. Nick's Arena. White was also matched with Elmer Ray on December 15, but the old Flame Thrower passed up the bout.

Henry Jones plastered Earl Lowman at the Callahan A. C. show at Mechanics Building two weeks ago. Jones is 6-feet, 2-inches tall and weighs 225-pounds and looks like he has the makings of a real heavyweight contender.

The winner will meet Ray on January 25.

Garden Big Aid to Boston Basketball

By MIKE GILLOOLY

The orphans of schoolboy sports—the kids from intown schools who are barred from any sort of championship in spite of the fact that they represent the capitol of the state—will get their first big break of the season this week when four of their basketball teams move onto the big league floor at the Boston Garden for a Friday afternoon session.

This program, a triple-header, will have Public Latin facing East Boston and B. C. High tangling with Trade with the Newton-Brookline High filling out the card.

It seems that the Boston schoolboys are ignored by everybody but Lt. Col. Walter Brown, head of the Garden-Arena who always manages to give them something. Their basketball teams can't compete in the Tech tourney; their headmasters forbid them to enter the State Baseball Championship; their hockey teams are forced to share their coach with the trackmen or vice-versa; their football teams are not allowed to play post-season games after they bury themselves at Braves Field all season.

But next Friday afternoon, they will be highlighting a tremendous week of schoolboy sports, whether the intown headmasters like it or not. They'll have a chance to move out of their home gymnasiums, like the kids in suburban schools do, to get a taste of what a real basketball court tastes like.

HUB HOCKEY TODAY

And too, the Boston schoolboys were to have the honor of opening the week's activity this afternoon with four hockey games—played against a running clock—scheduled for the North Station depot. These were to pit Brighton vs. South Boston; East Boston vs. Brandeis Vocational; Rosindale vs. Jamaica Plain and Charlestown vs. Hyde Park. Then, they'll come back to the Garden Wednesday for three games and move into the Arena Friday for four more.

JOHN E. WARNER Says: "DON'T SCRATCH YOUR HAIR AWAY"

This young man has a good head of hair and doesn't feel that he will ever be bald. Yet his scalp is laden with dandruff, itches constantly, and he loses a great deal of hair each day. His hair is going and the constant itching is nature's warning that baldness is on the way. Right now a short period of pleasant, low cost treatment used by John E. Warner and Associates would get rid of this dandruff, check the abnormal hair fall and normalize his scalp.

A few years later it is too late, his appearance is permanently marred, a serious handicap to anyone. Don't let baldness come to you since scientific Warner treatment and proper care afterward can prevent it in most cases.

There is no charge or obligation for a private scalp examination and consultation.

Fees for treatment are very moderate and are payable as the treatments are taken—not in advance. There is a separate department for women.
